Every time I see a Hall of Mirrors I have to go in, even though it reflects badly on me.

I’ve found that if I pray for God to move a mountain, I must be prepared to wake up next to a shovel.

When I told my parents over the phone that my husband has the flu, my dad said, “Have you tried euthanasia?” In the background my mom yelled, “For the last time, it’s echinacea!”

- “You know… I was once the Minor League player of the year... Unfortunately, by the time I won it, I had already been playing in the majors for two years.”
- “The most I ever made playing was $17,000 in 1966. $11,000 of it came from selling the other players equipment.”
- “I once hit a home run off of Sandy Koufax. Every time I see him, I apologize because I know that almost kept him out of the Hall of Fame.”
- “I had a manager once tell me ’Grab a bat and stop this rally’.”
- “When I came up in the ninth to bat with bases loaded and two outs, I looked into the visitor’s dugout and the guys were already in their street clothes.”
- “Sporting goods companies actually paid me NOT to endorse their products.”
- “I knew my career as a ball player was about over in 1965. My baseball card came out with no picture on it.”

My girlfriend told me she was leaving me because of my obsession with 60s band The Monkees. I thought she was joking ..

And then I saw her face ...

A man was named Odd, and he was teased mercilessly about his name since he was a child. So, he told his family that, when he was buried, he didn’t want anything on his tombstone—nothing at all, just leave it blank.

When people walking through the cemetery saw his tombstone, they would say, “Isn’t that odd?”

Children have a tendency to act just like their parents----despite every effort to teach them good manners.

A Sunday school teacher was discussing the Ten Commandments with her five and six year olds.

After explaining the commandment to “honor” thy Father and thy Mother, she asked, “Is there a commandment that teaches us how to treat our brothers and sisters?”

Without missing a beat one little boy (the oldest of a family) answered, “Thou shall not kill.”

We attend a small church in south Mississippi where small children usually sit with their parents during mass. I was so proud of our two year old that day because being quiet during the sermon. Toward the end of the sermon the preacher—my dad—began raising his voice to accentuate his main points. Our little diva stood up and yelled, “Calm down Pawpaw!” Everyone in the church, including my dad, took a moment to laugh.—Cera Thompson

I’m pretty sure I had a good time last night. I’ll let you know. Just let me finish reading the police report first.

BOB: Hello, I just want to know if I'm covered if I hit any wildlife.
INSURANCE AGENT: Of course sir. What did you hit?
BOB: A trout.

An older, tired-looking dog wandered into my yard. I could tell from his collar and well-fed belly that he had a home and was well taken care of. He calmly came over to me, and I gave him a few pats on his head. He then followed me into my house, slowly walked down the hall, curled up in the corner and fell asleep.

An hour later, he went to the door, and I let him out.

The next day he was back, greeted me in my yard, walked inside and resumed his spot in the hall and again slept for about an hour.

This continued off and on for several weeks. Curious, I pinned a not to his collar, "I would like to find out who the owner of this wonderful, sweet dog is and ask if you are aware that almost every afternoon your dog comes to my house for a nap."

The next day he arrived for his nap, with a different not pinned to his collar, "He lives in a home with 6 children, 2 under the age of 3. He's trying to catch up on his sleep. Can I come with him tomorrow?"

So, I had to return a book to the library today, and I came straight from the horse farm. I went to the front desk because it was an item on loan from another library and I wasn't sure if it had to checked in differently. The librarian said, "No," it could be returned in the normal slot, but she could take it and check I t in right away.

It was only when I got back to the car that I realized I had walked into the library covered in dirt from head to toe and handed back a book about grave robbing.

When the employees of a restaurant attended a fire safety seminar, they watched a fire official demonstrate the proper way to operate an extinguisher: “Pull the pin like a hand grenade, then depress the trigger to release foam.”

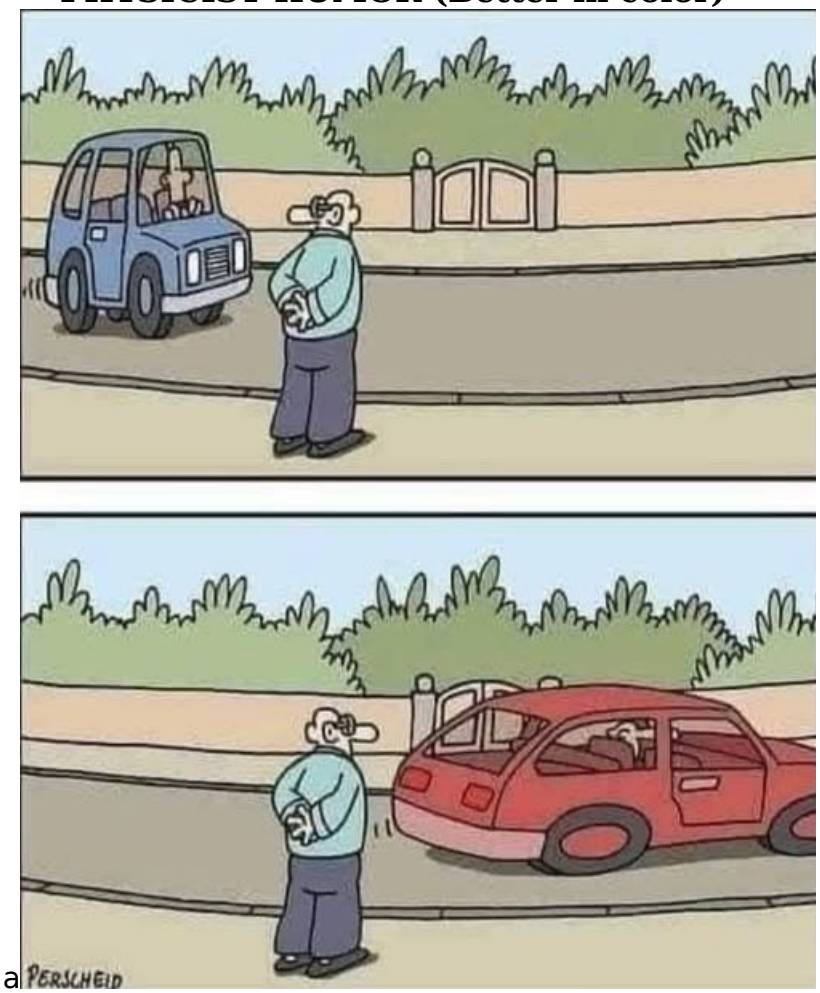
Later a blonde employee was selected to extinguish a controlled fire in the parking lot. In her nervousness, she forgot to pull the pin. The instructor hinted, “Like a hand grenade, remember.”

In a burst of confidence, she pulled the pin—and hurled the extinguisher at the blaze.

PHYSICIST HUMOR (Better in color)



Hospital regulations require a wheelchair for patients being discharged. However, while working as a student nurse, I found one elderly gentleman–already dressed and sitting on the bed with a suitcase at his feet–who insisted he didn’t need my help to leave the hospital.

After a chat about rules being rules, he reluctantly let me wheel him to the elevator. On the way down I asked him if his wife was meeting him.

“I don’t know,” he said. “She’s still upstairs in the bath- room changing out of her hospital gown.”

IN CASE OF AN EMERGENCY. . . .

After moving to the country, my three-year-old daughter and I were often alone in our house. Because we lived in a rural area with no close neighbors, I wanted to make sure my daughter would be able to call 911 in the event that something happened to me. After instructing her, I decided to test her: "OK, what would you do if you found me on the floor and you couldn't wake me up?" I could see her little brain working. To my surprise she finally said, "I would go into the kitchen and eat anything I want."—Laura Albrecht

It was a typical noisy dinner at my parents’ home, and Dad was having trouble following the conversations. He kept jumping in with off-topic comments and asking for things to be repeated. I finally told him he needed to get a hearing aid.

Looking at me as if I were crazy, he said, “What would I do with a hand grenade?”

A BLONDE AND HER BOAT - A TRUE STORY

Last summer, down on Lake Isabella, located in the high desert, an hour east of Bakersfield, California, a blonde (of course!!), new to boating was having problems. No matter how hard she tried, she just couldn't get her brand new 22ft Bayliner to perform.

It wouldn't plane at all, and it was very sluggish in almost every maneuver, no matter how much power she applied.

After about an hour of trying to make it go, she putted over to a nearby marina. Maybe they could tell her what was wrong.

A thorough topside check revealed everything was in perfect working order. The engine ran, the out drive went up and down, the prop was the correct size and pitch.

So, one of the marina guys jumped in the water to check underneath only to come up choking on water, he was laughing so hard.

REMEMBER THIS IS TRUE.

Under the boat, still strapped securely in place, was the trailer.

LOOKS LIKE SOMEONE'S DAY GOT OFF TO A ROUGH START

A very close friend of ours, Bob, had passed away and we took our eight-year-old son to the gravesite service. He was in awe the entire time. After lowering the casket, Bob's grandchildren gave each person a golf ball. Bob was an avid golfer and his widow decided to drop golf balls into the grave instead of flowers. Everyone smiled and joked. When we finished dropping the balls, our son, speaking in his outside voice had everyone laughing when he said, "Mom, it's a good thing your friend wasn't a bowler." —Jim Lyons.

WOMEN'S WORLD

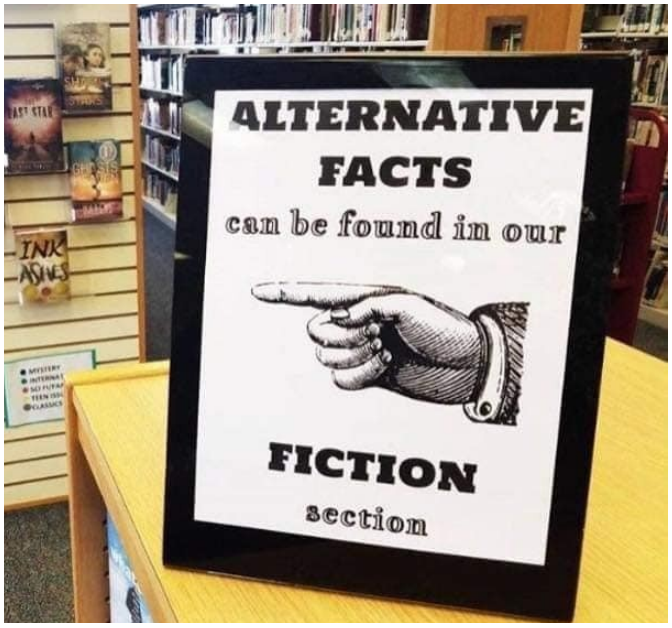
LIBRARIAN HUMOR



My wife has taken drastic action to prevent me from doing repairs around our house because she claims I always make a bad situation worse.

Here are some of her examples:

- I fixed the toaster. (now it bounces bread off the ceiling)
- I worked on the garbage disposal. (now it can’t grind up eggshells)
- I repaired the gate on our fence. (now every dog in the neighborhood is in our backyard)

- I worked on a broken chair leg. (now we have a chair with three legs)
- I repaired a faulty latch on the dryer door. (now we keep it shut with duct tape)

So - in what she claimed was a necessary “cost-saving measure” – the love of my life decided to hide my toolbox! And because she knows I can’t find anything without her help, I will never see it again.

THINGS TO DO TO FREAK OUT PEOPLE

- Make vanilla pudding, put it in a mayonnaise jar, take it to the gym, and eat it with a spoon.
- Run into a crowded store and ask, “What year is this?” When someone answers, yell, “It worked” and run out.
- Walk into a crowded elevator and, after the door has closed, say, “You probably wonder why I assembled you all here today.”
- Buy a parrot and train it to say, “Help, I’ve been turned into a parrot.”

DON’T TELL PAPA

After having a brand-new car for one day, I came home from Black Friday shopping with a fender bender. I told my three-year-old granddaughter, Landree, not to tell Papa or he’d be upset. Pretty soon, here comes Papa and he looked in the garage. Not saying anything, he went back downstairs to his man cave. I asked Landree if she had told Papa. She emphatically said, “No, I didn’t Gigi!” I said, “Well, what did you tell him?” She said, “I told him three times, ‘whatever you do, do NOT look in the garage!’” —Dianne Kreick

I’m not the world’s greatest cook, so I’m always trying to add to my repertoire. I’ve realized, though, that there are only so many recipes you can make with ground turkey and chicken. Supposedly a true story:

This guy walked into a little corner store with a shot gun and demanded all the cash from the cash drawer. After the cashier put the cash in a bag, the robber saw a bottle of scotch that he wanted behind the counter on the shelf. He told the cashier to put it in the bag as well, but the cashier refused and said "Because I don't believe you are over 21." The robber said he was, but the clerk still refused to give the scotch to him because he didn't believe him. At this point the robber took his driver’s license out of his wallet and gave it to the clerk.

The clerk looked it over, and agreed that the man was in fact over 21 and he put the scotch in the bag. The robber then ran from the store with his loot.

The cashier promptly called the police and gave the name and address of the robber that he got off of the license. They arrested the robber two hours later.

ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY

They had been up in the attic together doing some cleaning. The kids uncovered an old manual typewriter and asked, 'Hey Mom, what's this?'

'Oh, that's a typewriter,' she answered, thinking that would satisfy their curiosity.

'Well, what does it do?' they asked.

'I'll show you,' she said and returned with a blank piece of paper. She rolled the paper into the typewriter and began striking the keys, leaving black letters of print on the page.

'WOW!' they exclaimed, 'That's really cool.! But how does it work like that? Where do you plug it in?'

'There is no plug,' she answered. 'It doesn't need a plug.'

'Then where do you put the batteries?' they persisted.

'It doesn't need batteries either.' she continued.

'Wow! This is so cool!' they exclaimed. 'Someone should have invented this a long time ago!'

John was told that a twin-engine plane would be waiting at the airport. Arriving at the airport, he spotted a plane warming up outside the hanger. He jumped in and said, "Let's go."

Pilot asked, "Why?"

THINK TWICE ABOUT YOUR READER BOARD

With a very seductive voice, a wife asked her husband, "Have you ever seen a crumpled $20 bill?"

"No,” said her husband. She gave him a little smile, unbuttoned the top 3 buttons reached into her bra and pulled out a crumpled $20 bill.

She then asked him, "Have you ever seen a crumpled $50 bill?" “No, I haven't,” he answered with an anxious tone in his voice. She seductively unzipped her skirt and pulled out a crumpled $50 bill.

“Now,” she said, "Have you ever seen $40,000 all crumpled up?" "No way!" he panted.

She said, "Go look in the garage!"

SO, OUR DOG JUST BROUGHT THE SPRINKLER IN THROUGH HIS DOGGY DOOR. HOW'S YOUR DAY GOING?

One of the funniest memories I have of the trials and tribulations of making the journey from childhood to adulthood was our annual summer vacation trek from Chicago to a cabin usually someplace on a lake in Wisconsin or Michigan.

Every year, it seems, we would get on a highway a few miles out of the city, and mom would wail, "Oh my goodness! I think left the iron on." And almost every year we would turn around and go back. But as I recall, not once was it was ever plugged in. She often had the same fear that all our earthly possessions would disappear in a fire caused by her forgetfulness.

When I was about 14 years old, we were headed out of Chicago for Lake Geneva, Wisconsin and, sure enough, Mom gasped, "I just know I left the iron on."

My father didn't say a word, just pulled over onto the shoulder of the road, got out, opened the trunk and handed her the iron.

Lynde: "They give milk... and cookies, but I don't recommend the cookies."

Marshall: "Paul, everyone knows the first verse: What shall we do with the drunken sailor? / What shall we do with the drunken sailor? / What shall we do with the drunken sailor? / Early in the morning? But what is the first line of the next verse?"

Marshall: "Back in the 1870s, Emile Berliner invented something, and without it, I wouldn't be able to do my job. What was it?"

Lynde: "Let's see... toupees? Facelifts? Contact lenses?"

Marshall: "Now cut that out!"

JAMES TALARICO'S SERMON ON THE TOP REASONS THAT BEER IS BETTER THAN RELIGION

1. When you have beer, you don't knock on people's doors trying to give it away.
2. There are laws against forcing beer on minors who can't think for themselves.
3. Nobody's ever been burned at the stake because of their favorite brand of beer.
4. You don't have to wait more than 2000 years for your second beer.
5. If you have devoted your life to beer, there are groups to help you.

QUICK WITS

A man in New Orleans walked into the produce section of his local supermarket and asked to buy half a head of cabbage. The boy working in that department told him that they only sold whole heads of cabbage. The man was insistent that the boy ask the manager about the matter.

Walking into the back room, the boy said to the manager, “Some old stooge outside wants to buy half a head of cabbage.”

As he finished his sentence, he turned around to find that the man had followed and was standing right behind him, so the boy quickly added, “. . .and this gentleman kindly offered to buy the other half.”

Later, the manager said to the boy, “I was impressed with the way you got yourself out of that situation earlier, we like people who can think on their feed here. Where are you from, son?”

“Canada, sir,” replied the boy.

“Why did you leave Canada?” asked the manager.

The boy said, “Sir, there’s nothing but prostitutes and ice hockey players there.”

“Is that right?” demanded the manager. “My wife is from Canada!!”

“Really?” replied the boy, “Who did she play for.”

MY NEXT LIFE

I want to live my next life backwards: You start out dead and get that out of the way.

Then you wake up in a nursing home feeling better every day.

Then you get kicked out for being too healthy, enjoy your retirement, and collect your pension.

Then when you start work, you get a gold watch on your first day. You work 40 years until you’re too young to work.

You get ready for high school: drink alcohol, party, and your generally promiscuous.

Then you go to primary school, you become a kid, you play and you have no responsibilities.

Then you become a baby, and then . . . you spend your last 9 months floating peacefully in spa-like conditions – central heating, room service on tap, and then . . .

You finish off as an orgasm.

DADS AFTER YOU MOVE OUT AND QUIT LEAVING THE REFRIGERTOR DOOR OPEN AND THAT DAMN BATHROOM LIGHT ON

I've reached the age where my obituary will not contain the word "untimely."

Also, I think I’m getting close to my “best if used by” date.

Dear friend, if you ever feel really bad, call me. I promise to sing for you. Then you can decide what’s worse.

THIS IS WHY YOU NEED AT LEAST ONE MILLENNIAL ON THE STAFF AT YOUR CHURCH.

FAMOUS SMART RESPONSES

- When Pope John XXIII was asked how many people worked in the Vatican, he responded, “About half.”
- At an opera, when asked, “What did you think of the singer’s execution,” Calvin Coolidge responded, “I’m all for it.”
- When someone noted that historians would be arguing for generations over who was responsible for starting World War I, Georges Clemenceau, French Prime Minister responded, “But one thing is certain: They will not say that Belgium invaded Germany.”
- When asked what he thought about Western civilization, famous Indian pacifist Mahatma Gandhi answered, “I think it would be a good idea.”
- When Abraham Lincoln was accused by Stephen A. Douglas of being two faced, Lincoln replied, “If I had two faces, would I be wearing this one?”
- When the first-ever female MP elected to Parliament, Nancy Astor, Viscountess Astor, was invited to a dinner party at the Churchill estate in 1912, she became extremely frustrated with the future Prime Minister's politically-incorrect, drunken ramblings. So angered was she by Churchill that she said to him: "Winston, if you were my husband, I'd poison your tea." To which Churchill calmly replied: “Nancy, if you were my wife, I’d drink it.”

WELCOME, JESUS

POPE to alien: Do you know Jesus?

ALIEN: Yes, he comes to our planet twice a year.

POPE: Twice a year? It's been over two millennia since he's been here.

ALIEN: Maybe he doesn't like your chocolate.

POPE: Chocolate?

ALIEN: Yes, chocolate. Every time he comes to our planet, we give him all be best chocolates from our best makers. What did you do for him when he visited you?

WAIT A SECOND

A former sergeant in the Marine Corps took a new job as a high-school teacher. Just before the school year started, he injured his back. He was required to wear a plaster cast around the upper part of his body. Fortunately, the cast fit under his shirt and wasn't noticeable.

On the first day of class, he found himself assigned to the toughest students in the school. The smart punks, having already heard that the new teacher was a former Marine, were leery of him, and he knew that they would be testing his discipline in the classroom.

Walking confidently into the rowdy classroom, the new teacher opened the window wide and sat down at his desk. When a strong breeze made his tie flap, he picked up a stapler and stapled the tie to his chest.

Dead silence.

The rest of the year went very smoothly.

A PARENT'S OBSERVATION

It's pretty impressive how cool toddlers are most of the time when you realize that they usually have zero context for anything that is happening.

BOB UECKER FOR A QUOTE!

"I remember one time I'm batting against the Dodgers in Milwaukee. They lead, 2 - 1, it's the bottom of the ninth, bases loaded, two out and the pitcher has a full count on me. I look over to the Dodger dugout and they're all in street clothes."

Charley, a new retiree-greeter at Wal-Mart, just couldn't seem to get to work on time. Every day he was 5, 10, 15 minutes late. But he was a good worker, really tidy, clean-shaven, sharp-minded and a real credit to the company and obviously demonstrating their "Mature Person Friendly" policies.

One day the boss called him into the office for a talk. "Charley, I have to tell you, I like your work ethic, you do a bang-up job when you finally get here; but your being late so often is quite bothersome."

"Yes, I know boss, and I am working on it."

"Well good, you are a team player. That's what I like to hear."

"Yes sir, I understand your concern and I will try harder."

Seeming puzzled, the manager went on to comment, "I know you're retired from the Armed Forces. What did they say to you there if you showed up in the morning late so often?"

The old man looked down at the floor, then smiled. He chuckled quietly, then said with a grin, "They usually saluted and said, "Good morning, Admiral, can I get your coffee, sir?"

An elderly Florida lady did her shopping and, upon returning to her car, found four males in the act of leaving with her vehicle. She dropped her shopping bags and drew here handgun, proceeding to scream at the top of her lungs, “I have a gun and I know how to use it! Get out of the car!”

The four men didn’t wait for a second threat. They got out and ran like mad.

The lady, somewhat shaken, then proceeded to load her shopping bags into the back of the car and got into the driver’s seat.

She was so shaken that she could not get her key into the ignition. She tried and tried, and then realized why. It was the same reason she had wondered why there was a football, a Frisbee, and two 12-packs of beer in the front seat.

A few minutes later, she found her own car parked four or five spaced farther down. he loaded her bags into the car and drove to the police station to report her mistake.

The sergeant to whom she told the story couldn’t stop laughing. He pointed to the other end of the counter, where four pale men were reporting a car jacking by a mad, elderly woman described as white, less that five feet tall, glasses, curly white hair, and carrying a large handgun.

No charges were filed.

Police Officer gets grilled by a Lawyer in Court. What he says next is classic.

If you ever testify in court, you might wish you could have been as sharp as this policeman.

He was being cross-examined by a defense attorney during a felony trial.

The lawyer was trying to undermine the policeman's credibility...

Q: "Officer did you see my client fleeing the scene?"

A: "No sir. But I subsequently observed a person matching the description of the offender, running several blocks away."

Q: "Officer -- who provided this description?"

A: "The officer who responded to the scene."

Q: "A fellow officer provided the description of this so-called offender. Do you trust your fellow officers?

A: "Yes, sir. With my life."

Q: "With your life? Let me ask you this then officer. Do you have a room where you change your clothes in preparation for your daily duties?"

A: "Yes sir, we do."

Q: "And do you have a locker in the room?"

A: "Yes sir, I do."

Q: "And do you have a lock on your locker?"

A: "Yes sir."

Q: Now why is it, officer, if you trust your fellow officers with your life, you find it necessary to lock your locker in a room you share with these same officers?"

A: "You see, sir – we share the building with the court complex, and sometimes lawyers have been known to walk through that room."

The courtroom erupted in laughter, and a prompt recess was called.

BONDING

My son was born while I was serving abroad, so he was three before we met. When I got home, I decided it was time for a little father-son bonding time. I bought him a toy razor and invited him to "shave" with me. In the bathroom, I took up my razor and started shaving. I looked around to see how my son was doing. His foot was up on the side of the bathtub, and he was running the razor up and down his leg. So much for male bonding.

"We took this ball to the beach, and after close to two hours to pump it up, we pushed it around for about ten fun-filled minutes. That was when the wind picked it up and sent it hurtling down the beach at about 40 knots. It destroyed everything in its path. Children screamed in terror at the giant inflatable monster that crushed their sandcastles. Grown men were knocked down trying to save their families … Rumor has it that it can still be seen stalking innocent families on the Florida Panhandle."

In and American History discussion class, the teacher was trying to explain how societies ideal of beauty changes with time. “For example,” he said, “take the 1921 Miss America. She stood five feet, on inch tall, weighed 108 pounds and had measurements of 30-25-32. How do you think she’d do in today’s version of the contest?”

The class fell silent for a moment. Then little Johnny piped up, “Not very well.”

“Why is that? Asked the teacher.

“For one think,” Johnny pointed out, “She’d be way too old.”

A SPANISH Teacher was explaining to her class that in Spanish, unlike English, nouns are designated as either masculine or feminine.

"House" for instance, is feminine: "la casa."

"Pencil," however, is masculine: "el lapiz."

A student asked, "What gender is 'computer'?"

Instead of giving the answer, the teacher split the class into two groups, male and female, and asked them to decide for themselves whether "computer" should be a masculine or a feminine noun.

Each group was asked to give four reasons for its recommendation.

The men's group decided that "computer" should definitely be of the feminine gender ("la computadora"), because:

1. No one but their creator understands their internal logic;
2. The native language they use to communicate with other computers is incomprehensible to everyone else;
3. Even the smallest mistakes are stored in long term memory for possible later retrieval;
and
4. As soon as you make a commitment to one, you find yourself spending half your paycheck on accessories for it.
(THIS GETS BETTER!)
The women's group, however, concluded that computers should be Masculine ("el computador"), because:
1. In order to do anything with them, you have to turn them on
2. They have a lot of data but still can't think for themselves;
3. They are supposed to help you solve problems, but half the time they ARE the problem;
and
4. As soon as you commit to one, you realize that if you had waited a little longer, you could have gotten a better model.
The women won

And then

I looked up to see that the people at the table next to us looked utterly horrified. Long and short story, that’s why I should have remembered that other people have ears.

MY WIFE HATES BEING EMBARRASSED SO WE SURPRISED HER AT THE AIRPORT

OK, SO MY NEIGHBORS OFFICIALLY HATE ME—WHY?

Well, some friends and I were having a bonfire in the backyard, and we were making s’mores and all. And suddenly we heard sirens and see a firetruck turn into the street in front of us.

So, we all went running to see what was up, and our neighbors’ house was on fire!

When we got there the wife was crying into her husband’s arms, and we were just kinda standing there, and then she saw us, and then like for 10 seconds she gave us the dirtiest look every.

Turns out we were still holding our sticks with marshmallows on them, watching the fire.

Talk about bad timing.

ANSWER TO THE OBVIOUS QUESTION

A young woman brings home her fiancé to meet her parents. After dinner, her mother tells her father to find out more about the young man. The father invites the fiancé to his study to find out more about him.

"So, what are your plans?" the father asks.

"I am a bible scholar" the young man replies.

"A bible scholar, huh", the father says. "Admirable, but what will you do to provide a nice home for my daughter to live in, as she is used to having?"

The young man replies, "I will study & God will provide for us."

"And how will you buy her a beautiful engagement ring, which she deserves?" asks the father.

"I will concentrate on my studies & God will provide for us," replies the young man.

The conversation proceeds in this manner, which each question the father asks, the young man replies that God will provide.

Later, the mother asks, "How did the conversation go?"

The father answers: "He has no job & no plans, but the good news is that he thinks I am God."

Catholic elementary school kids were asked questions about the Old and New Testaments. The following statements about the bible were written by children. They have not been retouched or corrected (i.e., incorrect spelling has been left in).

1. In the first book of the bible, Guinessis, God got tired of creating stuff, so he took the Sabbath off.
2. Adam and Eve were made from an apple tree. Noah's wife was called Joan of Ark. Noah built an ark, which the animals come on to with pears.
3. Lot's wife was a pillar of salt by day, and a ball of fire at night.
4. The Jews were a proud people and all through history they had disagreements with the Genitals.
5. Samson was a strong man who let himself be led stray by a Jezebel like Delilah.
6. Samson slayed the Philistines with the axe of the Apostles.
7. Moses led the hebrews to the Red Sea, where they made unleavened bread which is bread without any ingredients
8. The Egyptians were all drowned in the dessert. Afterwards, Moses went up on Mount Cyanide to find the ten ammendments.
9. The first commandment was when Eve told Adam to eat an apple.
10. The seventh commandment is thou shalt not admit adultery.
11. Moses died before he ever got to America. Then Joshua led the hebrews in the battle of Geritol.

12. The greatest miracle in the Bible is when Joshua told his son to stand still and he obeyed him.
13. David was a hebrew king skilled at playing the liar. He fought with the Finklesteins, a race of people who lived in Biblical times.

One of my favorite historical facts ever is the 300-year gap in Irish inventions after the invention of whiskey.

FROM DOUGLAS ADAMS (AUTHOR OF HITCHHIKER'S GUIDE TO THE GALAXY)

I've come up with a set of rules that describe our reactions to technologies:

1. Anything that is in the world when you're born is normal and ordinary and is just a natural part of the way the world works.
2. Anything that's invented between when you're fifteen and thirty-five is new and exciting and revolutionary and you can probably get a career in it.
3. Anything invented after you're thirty-five is against the natural order of things.

I was at the checkout of a local Walmart. The cashier rang up $46.64 charges. I gave her a fifty-dollar bill. She gave me back $46.64. I gave the money back to her and told her that she had made a mistake in MY favor. She became indignant and informed me she was educated and knew what she was doing, and she returned the money again. I gave her the money back -- same scenario! I departed the store with the $46.64.

I walked into a Starbucks with a buy-one-get-one-free coupon for a Grande Latte. I handed it to the girl and she looked over at a little chalkboard that said 'buy one-get one free.' "They're already buy-one- get-one-free," she said, "so I guess they're both free." She handed me my free lattes, and I walked out the door.

I used to work in technical support for a 24/7 call center.

One day I got a call from an individual who asked what hours the call center was open. I told him, "The number you dialed is open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week."

He responded, "Is that Eastern or Pacific time?" Wanting to end the call quickly, I said, "Uh, Pacific."

I couldn't find my luggage at the airport baggage area, so I went to the lost luggage office and told the woman there that my bags never showed up. She smiled and told me not to worry because she was a trained professional, and I was in good hands. "Now," she asked me, "has your plane arrived yet?" So I replied, "No Ma'am, The Pilot told us we're circling the airport, 3rd in line to land."

While working at a pizza place, I observed a man ordering a small pizza to go. He appeared to be alone, and the cook asked him if he would like it cut into four pieces or six. He thought about it for some time before responding.

"Just cut it into four pieces. I don't think I'm hungry enough to eat six pieces."

Yep, they walk among us.... bless their hearts

WOMAN CALLS HER HUSBAND WHEN SHE REALIZES HER CAR IS MISSING

After a meeting several days ago, I couldn't find my keys. I quickly gave myself a personal "TSA Pat Down."

They weren't in my pockets. Suddenly I realized I must have left them in the car. Frantically, I headed for the parking lot. My husband has scolded me many times for leaving my keys in the car's ignition. He's afraid that the car could be stolen. As I looked around the parking lot, I realized he was right. The parking lot was empty. I immediately called the police. I gave them my location, confessed that I had left my keys in the car, and that it had been stolen.

Then I made the most difficult call of all to my husband: "I left my keys in the car and it's been stolen."

There was a moment of silence. I thought the call had been disconnected, but then I heard his voice. "Are you kidding me?" he barked, "I dropped you off!"

Now it was my turn to be silent. Embarrassed, I said, "Well, can you come and get me?"

He retorted, "I will, as soon as I convince this cop that I didn't steal your car!"

A senior citizen drove his brand-new Corvette convertible out of the dealership. Taking off down the road, he floored it to 80 mph, enjoying the wind blowing through what little gray hair he had left. Amazing, he thought as he flew down I-94, pushing the pedal even more.

Looking in his rearview mirror, he saw a state trooper behind him, lights flashing and siren blaring. He floored it to 100 mph, then 110, then 120. Suddenly he thought, What am I doing? I'm too old for this, and pulled over to await the trooper's arrival.

Pulling in behind him, the trooper walked up to the Corvette, looked at his watch, and said, "Sir, my shift ends in 30 minutes. Today is Friday. If you can give me a reason for speeding that I've never heard before, I'll let you go."

The old gentleman paused. Then he said, "Years ago, my wife ran off with a state trooper. I thought you were bringing her back."

"Have a good day, sir," replied the trooper

FAIR WARNING

So, I woke up and my dog is lying on the back patio covered in dirt with a rabbit in his mouth. The rabbit's not bloody, just dirty. My neighbor's kids raise blue ribbon rabbits. I instantly knew it was one of theirs.

I took the rabbit away from my dog, rushed inside, and washed all the dirt off it before my neighbors could come home. It was stiff but I heard some animals play dead when they are afraid, but I couldn't remember which ones. I took it and placed it back in one of the cages in their back yard then I ZOOMED back home. (Don't judge me.)

Not 30 minutes later I hear my neighbors screaming, so I go out and ask them what's wrong? They tell me their rabbit died three days ago and they buried it, but now it's back in the cage.

CLEVER OLD LADIES

Three mischievous old Grandmas were sitting on a bench outside a nursing home

When an old Grandpa John, walked by. And the one old granny yelled out saying, "We bet we can tell exactly how old you are."

John said, "There is no way you can guess it, you old fools."

The second old lady said, "Sure we can! - Just drop your pants and under shorts and we can tell your exact age."

Embarrassed just a little, but anxious to prove they couldn't do it, John dropped his drawers. One of the old aunties asked him to first turn around a couple of times and to jump up and down several times. Then the three of them all piped up and said, "You're 87 years old!"

Standing with his pants down around his ankles, John asked, "How in the world did you guess?"

Slapping their knees and grinning from ear to ear, all the old girls happily yelled in unison...

"We were at your birthday party yesterday!"

Amphibious pitcher makes debut

Venditte becomes first pitcher in 20 years to pitch with both arms in MLB game

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press

BOSTON — Pat Venditte took warmup pitches in his major debut with his right arm. And left.

The ambidextrous pitcher entered the game against the Boston Red Sox at the start of the seventh inning after being called up Friday by the Oakland A's.

Using a specially designed glove, he threw warmup pitches with his right hand then switched to his left

YEAH, WHAT WAS IT?

My toaster caught on fire yesterday and, when I realized it, there was a flame like two feet high almost touching my cabinets, so I panicked and picked it up so it wouldn't catch my cabinets on fire, but then I was just standing in my kitchen holding a flaming toaster and my dad saw me and didn't say anything, and I didn't know what to do, so I ran outside with it and threw it at the ground, but it was on fire, so I picked it up and threw it again and again until it went out, but by then my grass was on fire so I beat it with a shovel until that went out too.

Then I came back inside and my dad was just like, "Whatcha cooking Barb?"

The baker gives him the cookie, which the guy promptly eats.

Then he says to the baker, "Gimme another cookie for my magic trick."

The baker is getting suspicious, but he gives it to him. He eats this one too. Then he says again, "Gimme just one more cookie..." The baker is getting angry now, but gives him one anyway. The guy eats this one too.

Now the baker is really mad, and he yells, "OK... And now where is your famous magic trick?" The guy says, "Look in that other guy's pocket!"

There was an Irish priest named (What else?) Pat, who was called to a parish in England. Now Pat's whole family, for generations, had made an avocation of despising the English. The bishop knew this and he called Pat in for a word of prayer before Pat's departure.

"Pat," he said, "I'm going to nip this in the bud. You are called to minister to Christ's flock. Geography and politics don't apply. I'm aware that you've actually used the bully pulpit over here to rail against the English, but if I hear of any more of that, we'll have to reexamination your suitability for the priesthood."

"Understood?"

Pat swallowed his Fenianism and went off to his new parish. Soon, the bishop began to receive reports of his ministry. His English flock loved him. They found him personable and comforting. The bishop was highly pleased. Everything went swimmingly. Until Maundy Thursday,

And on Maundy Thursday evening, Pat mounted the pulpit and began:

"Picture, if yez will, all the disciples of Ar Lard gathered around the table, and Ar Lard sez, 'Sure, an' before the night's over one of yez'll betray me.' "

"Well, ye nivver saw such consternation. Each of the Twelve in turn askin' horrified, 'Is it I, Lard, is it I?' And Jesus would say to each, 'No, my beloved friend, it's not you.'

"Until it came to Judas Iscariot down at the end of the table. And Judas Iscariot looks at the Savior and says:

When one of our grandsons was about eight years old, he announced at a family gathering that I treat my wife like a queen. Hmm. I puffed myself up and asked him a question, expecting that the answer would give me similar stature. "Since I treat her like a queen, what does that make me?" His immediate response? "A servant." So much for my ego. —Jim Bartos.

THE MOM TEST

I was out walking with my five-year-old daughter. She picked up something off the ground and started to put it into her mouth. I took the thing away from her and asked her not to do that.

"Why?" she asked.

"Because it's been on the ground, and you don't know where it's been. It's dirty. And it probably has germs.

At this point, my daughter looked at me with absolute admiration and asked, "Mom, how do you know all this stuff?" You are so smart."

I thought quickly and replied, "All moms know this stuff. It's on the Mom Test. You have to know it, or they don't let you be a Mom."

We walked along in silence for two or three minutes, but she was evidently pondering this new information.

"Oh, I get it!" she beamed, "So if you don't pass the test, you have to be the Dad."

"Exactly," I said.

LONG TIME FLORIDIAN: “I don’t care unless it’s at least a category 7.”

A man scolded his son for being so unruly and the child rebelled against his father. He got some of his clothes, his teddy bear and his piggy bank and proudly announced: “I’m running away from home!”

The father calmly decided to look at the matter logically.

“What if you get hungry?” he asked.

“Then I’ll come home and eat”, bravely declared the child.

“And what if you run out of money?”, inquired the father.

“I will come home and get some”, replied the child.

The man then made a final attempt: “What if your clothes get dirty?”

“Then I’ll come home and let mommy wash them”, was the reply.

The man shook his head and exclaimed: “This kid is not running away from home; he’s just going off to college!”

My parents didn't find out till an employee of the Tacoma Post Office called to let my folks know there was a parcel to pick up. My dad said that caller was laughing, there was a lot of peeping in the background. My folks were good sports about it, let me keep the chickens. —Kelly Clinton

Two guys--one old, one young—are pushing their carts around the grocery store when they collide. The old guy says top the young, "Sorry about that. I'm looking for my wife, and I guess I wasn't paying attention to where I was going."

The young guy says, "That's okay, it's a coincidence. I'm looking for my wife too. I can't find her, and I'm getting a little desperate."

The old guy says, "Well, maybe I can help you find her. What does she look like?"

"Well, she is 27 years old, tall, with red hair, blue eyes, longlegs, and is wearing a tank top with short white shorts. What does your wife look like?"

The old guy replies, "It doesn't matter, let's look for yours."

I just replaced the can of air freshener in the office bathroom with an air horn.

Now we wait.

LIKE I WAS SAYING, THE CIRCUS IS JUST ONE OF MY CAREERS. THE REAL MONEY COMES FROM FROSTED FLAKES.

DYING ADVICE

In an old rural convent in Ireland, the 98-year-old Mother Superior lay dying. All of the other nuns gathered around her bed trying to make her final journey home more comfortable. They shared stories of all their years together serving the church.

Finally, after all was said and tears shed, they tried giving her a little of her favorite bedtime drink, some nice warm milk as a last treat, but she simply refused it.

Dismayed, one of the younger nuns took the glass back to the kitchen. Remembering a bottle of Irish Whiskey that they had received as a gift the previous Christmas, she opened it, and poured a GENEROUS amount into the still warm milk. She returned to Mother Superior's bed, and held the glass to her lips for one last try.

The frail old nun drank a little. Then a little more.

And, before they knew it, she had finished the whole glass down to the last drop. As her eyes brightened, and the smile of a life well lived came across her face, the nuns thought it would be a good opportunity to have one last talk with their spiritual leader. "Mother Superior," the nuns asked earnestly, "please give us one last pearl of your wisdom before you leave us."

She raised herself up in bed on one elbow, looked at them and said: "DON'T SELL THAT COW!"

PAINTER: Don't blame me. I was just following orders.

A player asked his golf coach: "What is going wrong with my game?" The coach replied, "You're standing too close to the ball-- after you've hit it."

ANALOGIES ACTUALLY USED IN HIGH SCHOOL ENGLISH ESSAYS

1. When she tried to sing, it sounded like a walrus giving birth to farm equipment.
2. Her eyes twinkled like the moustache of a man with a cold.
3. She was like a magnet: attractive from the back, repulsive from the front.
4. The ballerina rose gracefully en pointe and extended one slender leg behind her, like a dog at a fire hydrant.
5. She had him like a toenail stuck in a shag carpet.

I KNOW CPR!

My mother had just finished taking a CPR class at a local college when she and I were in the mall and saw a big crowd gathered around a still body. Mom took off running at a speed I didn't know she could muster, yelling, "Everyone back! I know CPR!" Just as she threw herself next to the body and was about to begin, a pair of strong hands pulled her to her feet. "Ma'am," said a police officer beside her, "we are trying to arrest this man."—Talea Torres

BUCKLE UP

THE RESAURANT THAT PROVIDES ATTRACTONS FOR ALL AGES

A group of 40-year-old girlfriends discussed where they should meet for dinner. Finally, it was agreed that they should meet at the ocean view restaurant because the waiters there had tight pants and nice buns.

Ten years later, at 50 years of age, the group once again discussed where they should meet for dinner. Finally, it was agreed that they should meet at the ocean view restaurant because the food there was very good and the wine selection was good also.

Ten years later at 60 years of age, the group once again discussed where they should meet for dinner. Finally, it was agreed that they should meet at the ocean view restaurant because they could eat there in peace and quiet and the restaurant had a beautiful view of the ocean.

Ten years later, at 70 years of age, the group once again discussed where they should meet for dinner. Finally, it was agreed that they should meet at the ocean view restaurant because the restaurant was wheelchair accessible and they even had an elevator.

Ten years later, at 80 years of age, the group once again discussed where they should meet for dinner. Finally, it was agreed that they should meet at the ocean view restaurant because they had never been there before.

I’m so jealous of people who know how to shut up. When I try, subtitles come out of my face.

AND THE WINNER OF TODAY’S HIDE AND SEEK IS

When I offer to wash your back in the shower, all you have to say is “yes” or “no.” Not all this, “Who are you and how did you get in here?” nonsense.
